SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY BOARD

LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL
from
THE SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY BOARD

November 1, 1961

To His Excellency, the Honorable Ernest Frederick Hollings, Governor of South Carolina, and to the Honorable members of the General Assembly of South Carolina:

Dear Sirs:

We have the honor to transmit the report of the South Carolina State Library Board for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1961.

There is contained in this report the activities of the Library Board for the past year, including a summary of public library progress in South Carolina, service statistics for each public library in the State, and a report of the program being carried on under the State Plan for the use of federal funds allotted to the State.

There is also enclosed in this year's report a five year summary of the projects being carried out under the Library Services Act.

The only new service covered in this 1961 report is the report on the service to the blind. The Library Board feels that this is one of the most worthwhile and important services that has been established in recent years.

Respectfully submitted,

HUGH L. WILLCOX, Chairman

EIGHTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT SOUTH CAROLINA STATE LIBRARY BOARD

July 1, 1960-June 30, 1961

THE STATE LIBRARY BOARD

The South Carolina State Library Board was created by the State Legislature in 1929. It began its present operation in 1943 when it received its first appropriation. It is administered by a Board of five citizens, appointed by the Governor upon the recommendation of the Superintendent of Education. A staff of seventeen members, seven of them professional librarians, carry out the program of the Board in extending and improving public library service in South Carolina.

WHAT THE BOARD DOES

The State Library Board—

Stimulates interest and support for public library service in counties and municipalities.

Works with groups in planning for better local library service.

Aids areas without libraries in developing library programs.

Provides professional direction and advisory technical services to regional, county, and municipal libraries.

Administers State Aid to county libraries.

Administers the State Plan for the use of Library Services Act funds in South Carolina.

Lends books to established libraries to supplement and enrich their collections.

Sets up standards of service for the guidance of public libraries.

Maintains book deposit service to communities in counties without county-wide library service.

Maintains an interlibrary loan service to supply local libraries with books not available locally.

Provides library service to the blind through a cooperative program with North Carolina.

Cooperates with other state agencies and organizations in service programs.

WHAT THE BOARD HAS ACCOMPLISHED

When the State Library Board began its program in 1943, there were twenty county libraries in operation. Since that time county-wide library service has been established by either county or regional library systems in all but six of the state's forty-six counties, and one of these, Beaufort, will establish the service in 1961. Not only has service been extended, but there has been great improvement in the quality of service available from all libraries. Book stocks have increased from 620,500 in 1943 to 1,848,303 in 1961—an increase of 1,227,803 volumes. The circulation of these books has risen from 3,726,222 in 1943 to 5,698,988 in 1961—an increase of 1,972,766 books read per year in South Carolina. To support this extended and improved service, library income has increased from $274,374 in 1943 to $1,528,564 in 1961—an increase of $1,254,190 for public library support. The figures given do not include the expenditures made for the construction of new public library buildings and for the renovation of old ones. In almost every county new and adequate library buildings have been constructed. Library equipment has improved both in quantity and in quality. The rolling stock of public libraries, the bookmobiles, have become real traveling libraries, large enough to carry large stocks of books over regularly scheduled routes in rural South Carolina. Basic to all of this progress has been the State Library Board's planning and direction. Its field staff has been instrumental in the organization of county and regional libraries and in the planning of new buildings and new equipment. The State Library Board's grant program which began in 1943 with a small allotment of $325 to each qualifying county library has now grown, with the aid of federal funds under its administration, to a point where sizeable grants are available for demonstration purposes. State Aid has remained $1,500 for the last eleven years. It should be sizeably increased in order to achieve the objectives of the State Aid Program.

HOW ADEQUATE IS SOUTH CAROLINA'S PUBLIC LIBRARY SERVICE?

Although much has been accomplished, much remains to be done before the state enjoys really adequate public library service. One of the most crying needs is for the establishment at state level of a general state library incorporating the present State Library and the State Library Board into a new system through which it would be possible, in addition to present services, to provide adequate reference and research facilities for the executive branch of state government, the legislature, and state agencies. Such a State Library, established under a separate board responsible directly to the Governor, would be in line with state level library organizations in all other states and would make it possible to provide services not at present available in South Carolina. At the local level some plan needs to be developed to assist the five counties still without county-wide library service to achieve this service either independently or in cooperation with a neighboring county. All public libraries need to improve the quality of their service to the general public through the provision of more adequately trained staff and more extensive book collections. In a few cases library buildings are badly needed, but the greatest needs of public library service in South Carolina are professionally trained staff and adequate book collections.

STATE AID PROGRAM

The State Aid Program in South Carolina has been instrumental in the establishment and improvement of county and regional libraries throughout the state. The amount of State Aid has never been large. Its purpose is to encourage local effort rather than to replace it. The $1,500 which is available to each qualifying county library is usually spent for the purchase of books. Each county which participates must meet certain definite standards of local support and of service before State Aid grants are made. In no case does the state's participation in the local library program exceed one-fourth of the total library budget. These provisions insure local effort and local control.

COMMUNITY BOOK DEPOSITS

An appreciated service of the State Library Board is a book deposit service given to one public library in each county which has not yet achieved county-wide library service. At present this service is being given to six municipal libraries and two state institutions. The service consists of book deposits varying in size from 100 to 1,000 volumes depending on the size of the community and the use of the books. The books are selected to include factual material and the best of current nonfiction—material frequently too limited in use in one community to warrant local purchase. Once every three months a professional librarian from the staff of the State Library Board visits these deposits with a well-stocked bookmobile from which the local custodian and her patrons make their selections for the local library. This frequent exchange of books insures a great variety of titles to the people of the community. Communities using this service are:

Bamberg County—Bamberg County Library

Beaufort County—Laura E. Towne Library, St. Helena Island

Chesterfield County—(service currently being revised)

Clarendon County—Manning Public Library

McCormick County—McCormick County Library

Williamsburg County—Kingstree Public Library

State institutions using this service:

Industrial School for Boys

Summer Orthopedic Camp for Children

INTERLIBRARY LOAN SERVICE

The State Library Board operates a thriving Reference and Interlibrary Loan Service which was established in 1957 with funds available to the State Library Board under the Library Services Act. The book collection used in this service now numbers over 38,000 volumes and will eventually become the largest general collection in the state. It already includes many books and much material which have never before been available in South Carolina. Emphasis is being placed upon technical and business material which is greatly needed by new industry coming into the state. The service is in charge of a qualified Reference Librarian who fills requests for information and books submitted by local public libraries. The service is heavily used, and last year approximately 5,000 requests were received and filled.

With the assistance which the State Library Board is able to give, several county and regional libraries have been encouraged to establish business reference service or to improve service already established. Business reference service is expensive, and not all public libraries can afford to operate it on limited budgets, but all public libraries can use the extensive resources of the State Library Board in this field.

SERVICE TO THE BLIND

In 1961 North and South Carolina entered into an agreement for the joint operation of a Regional Library for the Blind to serve the blind in both states. The Regional Library is operated by a joint board made up of representatives from both states. It is financed on the basis of $10 per blind user of the service. At this date, approximately 700 South Carolinians are making use of the service and are finding it more satisfactory and convenient than the service formerly provided by the Library of Congress.

HOME DEMONSTRATION READING CLUBS

As a special service to rural adults, the State Library Board co-sponsors with the Agricultural Extension Service reading clubs for Home Demonstration groups. The clubs are designed to encourage the use of the extensive recreational and informational material available from the county and regional libraries. During the year these clubs were in operation in 32 counties. Approximately 4,000 women participated in the clubs, and 185 won special recognition for completing the required reading courses.

LIBRARY PROGRESS DURING THE YEAR

The Greenville City and County Libraries were consolidated by Act of the Legislature to form a unified system to serve the entire county.

Florence Public Library was re-established under an independent board by Act of the Legislature.

Resources for the study of South Carolina history were improved through the provision in one county library in each of the Congressional Districts of a collection of "The Hundred Essential Books in South Carolina History."

Charleston and Spartanburg county libraries completed new headquarters buildings.

The Richland County Library opened the new John Hughes Cooper Branch Library which was built with funds donated by the Cooper family.

The Beaufort County Library was legally established by Act of the Legislature.

Under the Library Services Act, the South Carolina State Library Board received $170,405 from the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the extension and improvement of public library service in rural areas. (A report of the first five years of this program will be found at the close of this annual report.)

LIBRARY SERVICES ACT

Under the Library Services Act additional financial support is provided to state library extension agencies for the development of rural library service. Funds are granted to each state on the basis of a plan for the use of federal funds developed by the state library extension agency. The amount of funds granted the state is determined by the ratio of the state's rural population and per capita income to the national average. A state is automatically disqualified for a grant of funds under the act if the appropriation for the library extension agency falls below that made for the year 1956.

THE PLAN

The South Carolina plan for the implementation of the provisions of the Library Services Act within the State is aimed at the correction of the major deficiencies in public library service in the State. These deficiencies are deemed to be an inadequate state level program, inadequate reference service from State and local levels, an inadequate supply of professionally trained librarians, and units of library administration too small to provide adequate service as measured against state and national standards.

FIVE YEAR REPORT—LSA PROGRAM

This is a report of progress, of tangible evidence which can be measured and counted, but not of the more significant intangibles which can only be measured and evaluated by time.

At the beginning of the Library Services Act program, South Carolina had a wide-spread and well-established system of county and regional libraries. The State Library Board had developed a program of library extension and improvement which was achieving results. The extent of the service was good; the quality of service left much to be desired. Although book collections were generally in good condition and of a high standard, state per capita book ownership was only .70. The public libraries employed only 42 qualified librarians. No new county libraries had been established since 1953; no regional libraries since 1948. The public library program was certainly not at a standstill, but further progress was going to be difficult and slow.

The beginning of the Library Services Act program in 1956 lent impetus to the entire public library program. A plan designed to correct the major deficiencies in public service in the state was immediately adopted and put into effect. The very fact that the Federal government believed in the necessity for good public library service and was backing this belief with hard cash gave status and authority to public libraries. South Carolina's public library program began to move ahead—not in new directions, but on a well surveyed route to a higher level of service for all the people.

The State Library Board, as the administrative agency for the program in South Carolina, added supervisory and administrative personnel; acquired additional space and equipment; and began to offer new services. The Board's major undertaking and most difficult problem was to develop the program under the State Plan. This involved the widespread dissemination of information about the plan; the careful, and frequently tedious, development of demonstration areas; and the formulation of numerous contracts and agreements to cover the various projects.

A NEW LIBRARY BUILDING FOR JOHNSTON

Governor Hollings speaks at the ground breaking ceremonies for the Johnston Library—a branch of the Aiken-Barnwell-Edgefield Regional Library.

REFERENCE SERVICE. To improve reference service, an area in which South Carolina was particularly weak at both state and local levels, the State Library Board began to expand its reference and interlibrary loan service by the addition to the staff of a Reference Consultant and the provision of adequate funds for the purchase of books and materials. At the same time grants of $2,500 each were made to county libraries for the purchase of basic reference materials. To insure the full use of the new reference resources and their further development, the Reference Consultant and field staff conducted numerous workshops for library staff members in every area of the state. A workshop on business reference service was held at the Charlotte (North Carolina) Public Library for professional librarians. The use of the reference and interlibrary loan service has grown from 309 reference and interlibrary loan transactions in 1957 to 4,887 such transactions in 1961. Over 38,000 books have been added to the reference and interlibrary loan collection and the collection has been augmented by the addition of subscriptions to the microfilm edition of some 221 business and technical periodicals. Although the use of this service has developed phenomenally over the past five years, it still has a great potential which can be realized only when additional space and personnel are available.

CAROLINA MATERIALS PROJECT. Growing out of the need for more adequate reference service at local level, the Carolina Materials Project was developed. Probably no other of the thirteen original colonies so deeply reveres its history or has done so little to preserve it. There is a dearth of material on South Carolina history which is crippling to lay people and students who are interested in its study. With the idea of remedying this situation to a degree, the State Library Board with the assistance of recognized authorities in the field of South Carolina history, compiled a list of the hundred essential books in South Carolina history. The State Board then brought these books back into print by the Xerox Process and deposited the books in one library in each of the six Congressional Districts which would agree to open its full history collection to the use of the people in the Congressional District. Not only has this project made available rare and valuable material hitherto unavailable outside of Columbia and Charleston, but it has been most persuasive in assuring the sharing of resources among public libraries and among users of public libraries over a wide area.

PERSONNEL PROJECT. It is yet too soon to form any clear judgment as to the effectiveness of the Personnel Project in remedying the deficiency of adequately trained librarians for South Carolina's public libraries. The Senior Intern Project which terminated in June, 1961, resulted in five trained librarians who were immediately employed on the staffs of the sponsoring libraries. There were several by-products of this program in young people who became interested in librarianship and undertook the graduate program at their own expense. The Junior Intern Program, as a recruiting device, seems to have been most effective. Thirty-six young people have been directly involved in the summer training program and hundreds of others have been contacted through the publicity given the program in colleges throughout the Southeastern area. Of those directly involved, one is now in library school and five others will begin training in 1961. In-service-training for professional librarians has been pursued through the granting of scholarships to attend out-of-state workshops. For the pre-professional, numerous short workshops have been held. A two-week workshop in cooperation with Winthrop College was attended by twenty pre-professionals whose enthusiasm over the training program warrants its continuance.

CERTIFICATION OF LIBRARIANS. As a means of improving the personnel standards in public libraries of the state, the State Library Board has developed, with the assistance of Miss Marian Moshier, a certification plan for South Carolina. The State Library Board has the legal authority to carry out such a plan, but has never had time or staff to develop the program. The proposal will be presented to the Public Library Section at the next meeting of the South Carolina Library Association.

COUNTY AND REGIONAL LIBRARY PROJECTS. In order to remedy the deficiency in the size of the unit of administration by developing library systems in areas wide enough to provide good service measured by both state and national standards, the State Library Board developed two projects—the County Library Project and the Regional Library Project. The County Library Project was designed to accomplish the consolidation of libraries in the larger counties where more than one library was supported by public funds. The first project undertaken was that of the Anderson County Library which was legally established in the spring of 1957 following a referendum which established the consolidated library system and approved a 1½-mill tax for its support. The demonstration can be judged now to have been a complete success. The system has resulted in improved public library service over the entire area. The objectives of the demonstration program were fully accepted by the people of the community whose continued use and support of the program is the best proof of its success. That this demonstration has been influential in the library thinking of the rest of the state is demonstrated by the fact that a neighboring county, Greenville, consolidated its two public libraries by act of the legislature in the spring of 1961 and approved a  $2\frac{1}{4}$ -mill tax on all county property for its support. Some progress is being made in York and Florence counties towards the same objective, and it seems reasonable to hope that by the end of the next five years, these two counties will also have established strong central systems.

FOR A SATISFYING CAREER

The State Library Board's Junior Intern Program gives young people the opportunity to try out librarianship as a career.

The Regional Library Project was designed to demonstrate the values of consolidation and cooperation between groups of small counties in the establishment of large systems of service. The first such demonstration undertaken was in Aiken-Barnwell-Edgefield area adjacent to the new hydrogen bomb plant. The regional library systems in South Carolina are actually one library system serving an entire area with consolidated budget, board, and staff. The regional library has been successful in offering service of a relatively high level to people throughout the area. Now in the final year of the demonstration period, local funds are beginning to replace grant funds for the support of the service. This regional library is apparently a permanent organization which will continue without interruption at the close of the demonstration period. Two other areas in the state have considered and studied the establishment of regional library service. These are the five counties in the Southeastern section of the state and the three counties in the Piedmont section. So far, these plans have met with little success, but the plans are far from dead.

BOOK COLLECTION IMPROVEMENT PROJECT. As a means of helping public libraries overcome deficiencies in their book collections, the State Library Board developed a Book Collection Improvement Project under which qualifying county and regional libraries secured grants based on rural population of seven cents per capita. Grant funds were spent according to an adopted budget and in categories where book needs were greatest. By and large, the greatest amount of grant funds were used to purchase adult nonfiction.

The past five years have seen an unprecedented improvement in the quality of public library service throughout the state. This improvement was made possible largely through Library Services Act funds. Every project developed under the State Plan is one which can be carried on with either state or local funds at the close of the demonstration period. It has been the aim of the State Library Board to develop the library program as a part of the total state development. Although this means that projects lack some glamour and dramatic appeal, the end result is a sound development of library service which has a strong basis in local support.
